The Endura Guarantee

THE Endura Guarantee of perpetual and unconditional free service, inaugurated by Conklin exclusively three years ago, is universally recognized today as the greatest force for the complete and permanent satisfaction of the customer ever brought into the pen and pencil trade. In no instance has Conklin failed to meet the service needs of the owner of an Endura Pen without question or cost under the conditions of the guarantee. This guarantee constitutes a powerful merchandising force for the dealer when intelligently presented to the customer. The Endura guarantee provides for free service, not for the replacement of pens or pencils or parts which are lost or which cannot be returned. All the broken parts must be sent to our service department.

Endura pens and pencils embody the highest type of manufacturing, both as to material and workmanship. Each Endura pen is filled with ink and carefully tested. Enduras are fitted with semi-manifold, stiff or flexible nibs, the flexible nib becoming increasingly popular. Each Endura is marked by annular rings in color on cap and barrel. Explain the guarantee to your customer at the time he buys an Endura.

*I*N designing and compiling this catalog of Conklin products we believe we have achieved the maximum of efficiency and convenience in a pen and pencil catalog.

A catalog serves but one important purpose—to enable the one who is looking at it to make up his order quickly, easily and intelligently. He should not be confused or forced to hunt for something he has a call for. Neither should he be obliged to place an order to learn that some numbers are discontinued or to wait for a whole new catalog before learning of new numbers.

We have made this a loose leaf catalog, giving a leaf to each separate line, and providing illustrations and description sufficient to give you complete information about Conklin pens and pencils, classified both as to colors and prices. When any number has been discontinued, or new ones added, you will receive new leaves. Thus you will at all times have a Conklin catalog which is up-to-the-minute even in this fast-moving world. Prices shown are list and subject to trade discounts.

While the leaves are made to fit standard binders, if you desire to use them that way, we suggest that you keep them in the strong and convenient cover in which they reach you. Thus the catalog fits harmoniously into your own most efficient method of use, whatever that may be.

CONKLIN BROCADING is the process of weaving names and other wording into the chasing of the pencil. There is no indenting of the metal by use of dies and engraving tools—the barrel retains every degree of its original attractiveness.

The desire to own Conklin Pencils and the pride of possession is actually increased through the Conklin process of brocading.

Conklin brocading can be done on silver plate, sterling silver, yellow gold, and green gold pencils. The cost price is arrived at by figuring your regular discount on the list price of the pencil you desire to use and then adding the cost of brocading.

Conklin brocading is less expensive than die stamping or hand engraving. The cost is regulated by the quantity ordered.

Conklin brocading is in demand by many organizations who purchase in large quantities for distribution as souvenirs as well as for advertising and sales purposes. Large corporations are prospects for Conklin brocaded pencils (for means of identification) for use within the organization.

Conklin brocaded pencil orders are large with corresponding profits. Our Sales Department will gladly assist you in developing your prospects for Conklin brocaded pencils.

On the above samples showing Conklin brocading notice how effectively the wording is brought out. Notice also that in so doing the attractiveness of the pencil itself is in no way decreased as is by die stamping or other indentation.
